

Programme Management

Programme and Project Management provide the control and backbone to the successful delivery of IT services within healthcare. While MEC utilise well established methodologies such as PRINCE2 value is added by the way MEC deliver accurate project management, identify tasks, realistic durations and resource supported by solid business cases under a disciplined framework.

MEC's thorough approach to delivery of "product" through programme management is excellent, ensuring all projects and their components are managed with quality, speed and accuracy.

Project management has been a key service in the catalogue of MEC services with previous experience in delivering project to programme level implementations for Resource management, Hospital Information Support Systems (HISS), Electronic Patient Record (EPR), Electronic Record Development and Implementation Programme (ERDIP), and Local Service Provider (LSP).

Service around programme/project management includes:

- Business case establishment
- Organisational management
- Planning – Baseline and modelling approaches
- Project control
- Risks, Issues, Assumptions & Dependency logging (RAID)
- Critical path assessment
- Quality assessment
- Configuration Management
- Change control management

MEC use standard tools to manage projects and resources enabling easy integration into the customer's existing project management processes.

MEC can work with the customer to assist, develop or manage programme and project related requirements and MEC adaptively adjust its approach to meet the businesses individual needs. These can range from "svelte" based planning whereby the minimum, most effective tasks are identified, enforced and delivered to meet the goals or a more comprehensive "embodied" based plan is provided to a macro management levels.

Programme Management

MEC are always examining how to make their services and processes more effective, efficient, and innovative. MEC's previous history in the management of programmes and projects forms the basis of a reliable, secure capability suited for the market place delivering high quality services and results.

For further information please email: enquiry@mechealthit.co.uk